Interim's Letter

By the Reverend Dr. Linda Maloney

Dear People of Calvary,

In December 2009 I came to be your interim pastor, expecting to stay six or eight months. Two years and three months later, it is time for me to say goodbye. I've loved every minute of my time with you, and I will miss you all so very much! I have tried to help you heal your wounds, regain your confidence, and take charge of your destiny, with God's help—and I think that together we have succeeded. Calvary remains a "goal," never a stopping-place on the road. It's a paradoxical goal: the place of crucifixion. But it is also the place from which new life has come, and continues to come, for you and for all the world. Under the leadership of your new Rector you will surely continue to blossom and grow, to travel on toward your destiny. I expect to be hearing great things about you, from afar.

When you visit Franklin County, please drop by. You will remain in my heart and in my prayers every day.

Your Interim,

Linda✠

Westman family, all of our college students, and all of our military men and women, home and abroad, especially Jesse Arbogast, Aaron Decker, and Scott Jackson.

Warden's Corner

I am excited that not only is our search over, but we have a new minister who will start serving Calvary on Sunday, March 11. Right up until last Saturday afternoon yours truly was not sure where we were going with this search. Then in walked Jack, the man with the plan. The plan was to use a simple evaluation tool to compare the strengths of the candidates relative to Calvary's requirements from the parish survey and profile. Ten of us met at Karen Lawsing's house and at the end of two hours of deliberation we had a unanimous decision.

As I looked around the table at everyone I reflected that Calvary now has strong lay leadership. These are people willing to speak up and willing to listen to other's opinions without judgment, people who have a vision for Calvary going forward, people I am happy to hang out with.

The Reverend Regina Christianson has been chosen as Calvary's next Rector. Regina is currently living in Stowe and has been serving the congregation of St Paul's Episcopal Church in Windsor, VT for the last two years. Regina brings many years of experience to Calvary. She is, among many other things, an accomplished musician, a gifted preacher and a caring counselor. Regina will be joined by her husband Stephen, who is also a gifted musician. Music is very important to them both, so look forward to the possibility of Calvary having a choir in the near future.

This has been a long run for Calvary. We have been in this search process for over two years now, but not without a caring minister. Our long serving interim Linda has been with us through this whole time and has cared for our congregation with unflagging devotion and courage. Her deep knowledge of scripture and sense of humor that shine forth in her sermons have captivated many. These two plus years have been good for both Calvary and Linda✝.

Working together, we have healed the past, grown stronger, clarified our mission and are now ready for the future. After the service this Sunday, we will be celebrating and appreciating Linda's ministry to Calvary with a brunch in the undercroft.

In case you are wondering how Calvary's mission may have been clarified and what that vision is for Calvary going forward let me get you up to speed. We have decided to act out the last part of Calvary's mission statement: "serve our neighbors." We are going literal with this statement and have been serving homemade soup and bread to our neighbors since June. Our neighbors have responded with appreciation, gathered in joyful fellowship and contributed generously to the charitable needs of our local community. We are memorializing Ken Wiggin (the leader of the charge for The Soup and Bread Suppers) by launching Ken's Kitchen and now we are working on a revamp of the whole undercroft area thanks to Jack. Sunday School is growing to meet the needs of more young families and thanks to the Hills for running that program.

The future is now. Let's live it together.

John

Fun Stuff...

How Children Perceive Their Grandparents:

1. She was in the bathroom, putting on her makeup, under the watchful eyes of her young granddaughter, as she'd done many times before. After she applied her lipstick and started to leave, the little one said, "But Grandma, you forgot to kiss the toilet paper good-bye!" I will probably never put lipstick on again without thinking about kissing the toilet paper good-bye...
2. My young grandson called the other day to wish me Happy Birthday. He asked me how old I was, and I told him, 62. My grandson was quiet for a moment, and then he asked, "Did you start at 1?"
3. After putting her grandchildren to bed, a grandmother changed into old slacks and a droopy blouse and proceeded to wash her hair. As she heard the children getting more and more rambunctious, her patience grew thin. Finally, she threw a towel around her head and stormed into their room, putting them back to bed with stern warnings. As she left the room, she heard the three-year-old say with a trembling voice, "Who was THAT?"
4. A grandmother was telling her little granddaughter what her own childhood was like. "We used to skate outside on a pond. I had a swing made from a tire; it hung from a tree in our front yard. We rode our pony. We picked wild raspberries in the woods." The little girl was wide-eyed, taking this all in. At last she said, "I sure wish I'd gotten to know you sooner!"
5. My grandson was visiting one day when he asked, "Grandma, do you know how you and God are alike?" I mentally polished my halo and I said, "No, how are we alike?" "You're both old," he replied.
6. A little girl was diligently pounding away on her grandfather's word processor. She told him she was writing a story. "What's it about?" he asked. "I don't know," she replied. "I can't read."
7. I didn't know if my granddaughter had learned her colors yet, so I decided to test her. I would point out something and ask what color it was. She would tell me and was always correct. It was fun for me, so I continued. At last, she headed for the door, saying, "Grandma, I think you should try to figure out some of these colors yourself!"
8. When my grandson Billy and I entered our vacation cabin, we kept the lights off until we were inside to keep from attracting pesky insects. Still, a few fireflies followed us in. Noticing them before I did, Billy whispered, "It's no use Grandpa. Now the mosquitoes are coming after us with flashlights."
9. When my grandson asked me how old I was, I teasingly replied, "I'm not sure." "Look in your underwear, Grandpa," he advised. "Mine says I'm 4 to 6."
10. A second grader came home from school and said to her grandmother, "Grandma, guess what? We learned how to make babies today." The grandmother, more than a little surprised, tried to keep her cool. "That's interesting." She said. "How do you make babies?" "It's simple," replied the girl. "You just change 'y' to 'i' and add 'es'."
11. Children's Logic: "Give me a sentence about a public servant," said a teacher. The small boy wrote: "The fireman came down the ladder pregnant." The teacher took the lad aside to correct him. "Don't you know what pregnant means?" she asked. "Sure," said the young boy confidently. "It means carrying a child."
12. A grandfather was delivering his grand-children to their home one day when a fire truck zoomed past. Sitting in the front seat of the fire truck was a Dalmatian dog. The children started discussing the dog's duties. "They use him to keep crowds back," said one child. "No," said another. "He's just for good luck." A third child brought the argument to a close. "They use the dogs," she said firmly, "to find the fire hydrants."
13. A 6-year-old was asked where his grandma lived. "Oh," he said, "she lives at the airport, and when we want her, we just go get her. Then, when we're done having her visit, we take her back to the airport."
14. "Grandpa is the smartest man on earth! He teaches me good things, but I don't get to see him enough to get as smart as him!"
